>BOOM! A sudden crash in the distant caught the attention of both Hiccup and Toothless. Their heads turned towards the direction of the noise before looking at each other. One glance was all it took before Hiccup got onto the back of Toothless, ready to investigate. Toothless spread his wings and shooter into the air, trying to get a better view from a larger height.

They scanned the whole forest before Hiccup spotted a ditch made a mile away from them. It was no problem for Toothless to speed towards it, he was curious too.

They soon landed on the ground, next to a hole made in the grass. It didn't seem that deep so Hiccup got down from Toothless to peek down the hole. A gasp escaped him when he saw that a dragon was down there. "Look Toothless! It's a cub (?) as well!" The night fury rushed over to see the young dragon.

Toothless looked at Hiccup exitedly when they both realised that it too was a night fury. However, it's scales were white, not black. "Bud! Oh My God! This changes everything!" Hiccup laughed and Toothless began prancing around, letting his excitement be shown before he returned to look at the cute dragon.

I The babe was white and very small. It's scales were white with a blue tint at the end and half of its tail was blue as well. It's wings were tucked around it and it's eyes were shut, as though it were sleeping. Hiccup was still in awe at the second night fury. "Should we take her with us?" Hiccup turned to Toothless, who was nodding his head rapidly, wanting another dragon of his kind to play with.

A chuckle came from Hiccup at Toothless' eagerness. "Alright, but what should we name it? Him? Her?" Toothless leaned further towards the hatchling and sniffed it, trying to confirm its gender. "So is it a boy or a girl? Nod if it's a girl, shake your head if it's a boy" Toothless nodded his head.

Hiccup placed his hand on his chin, trying to think of a name for the small dragon. "What about Aureole?" Toothless thought for a moment before nodding. "So...how are we taking her back to the village?" Toothless didn't answer, he just bent over, trying to nudge the dragon awake.

And it did. Her eyes were a icy shade of blue and upon seeing the viking, began to whimper. That was until Toothless came into her view and she began to grin, trying to stand. However, she ended up landing on her stomach, her legs sprawled out in defeat. She pouted as she struggled to stand again.

And while Toothless was smiling down at the hatchling, they both grew impatient. Toothless picked up Aureole with his mouth, gently biting her back to lift her out of the ditch. Hiccup went to take the small dragon from Toothless but the older night fury moved his head away, not wanting to part from the smaller dragon.

Hiccup couldn't get mad at his friend, it was understandable. Toothless had thought he was the last of his kind and so he would want to spend a lot of time with the newly found night fury. So Hiccup let his hands grip Toothless' saddle and he pulled himself up, mindful of his peg leg.

"Let's head back" Hiccup tapped Toothless' back and they set off to the village, wanting to show everyone their new discovery.

>"Hey Astrid" Hiccup waved to his girlfriend, who was petting her own dragon. "Hey Hiccup, where have you been?" She smiled, walking towards the duo. "Oh Astrid! You won't believe what we found!" Hiccup was nearly leaping at his excitement. "Did you find another island? Another dragon?" Hiccup nodded.

"Oh yeah, but not just any dragon! A Night Fury!" Astrid gasped, her hand flying to her chest. "Seriously?! Where is it?" Hiccup gestured to Toothless, who was curled up, hiding Aureole from Astrid. He may have grown to like her, but he doesn't trust her enough to get close to the last of his kind.

Astrid grew closer to Toothless, trying to see the night fury behind his wings. But Toothless only growled at her, daring her to come closer. "Hey bud! Come on, it's Astrid" Hiccup tried to persuade Toothless but said dragon only snarled at her. Astrid glared at Toothless, walking closer. "Let me see you stupid dragon!" She was getting angry, making Toothless more protective and loathsome.

"Astrid, I wouldn't do that" Hiccup said as she reached out to Toothless, going to pull his wings apart to see the dragon. "Don't! Astrid!" When she didn't listen to Hiccup and said Viking could see that Toothless would attack if she continued, Hiccup ran towards her, snatching her wrist away from him.

"What were you thinking?!" Hiccup glared, yet was confused at the sudden anger. "Me? Who's side are you on!? I'm your girlfriend! You're supposed to be on my side not a dragon's!" She sneered and stomped off, riding Stormfly into the sky. The brunette sighed as he watched her figure shrink into the distance.

"Look, I know she's the last, but you gotta let other people see her too. It's not like she's going to disappear" He spoke softly, placing his hand on Toothless' wings. The Night Fury pouted and opened his wings, revealing a scared baby dragon. "Hey there, no need to be scared" Hiccup soothed and reached out to pet her.

Aureole was hesitant but let him pet her after sniffing his hand. She purred at the feeling and stumbled closer to Hiccup, resting on his lap. Toothless tilted his head at the side. "I guess she likes me" Hiccup chuckled, managing to lift the newborn dragon. "Surprisingly light..." Hiccup mumbled.

"Come on bud, it's gonna be nightfall soon" Toothless sighed, following the Viking to their house in the centre of the town. Aureole was curled up in Hiccup's arms, snuggling into his chest. Hiccup could only smile at the sight.

Once they were home, Toothless curled up on his bed, made by Hiccup, whilst Hiccup set Aureole next to Toothless. He then did his nightly routine before finally going to bed. "Night Toothless" Toothless purred in response. A chuckle escaped Hiccup as he broke the silence with "This was interesting...perhaps tomorrow will be even...more...interesting..." before he fell into a deep slumber.
